COMPARING COLLEGE COSTS

In its issue of January 12, 1993, The AACC Times published a comparative study of college costs and found that despite recent increases in tuition at public community colleges, these institutions still provided affordable alternatives for undergraduate higher education.

According to The Times report, tuition at these colleges remained at less than 50 percent of tuition at public four-year colleges and universities until 1992-93 when it increased to 57 percent.

Additionally, average costs for books and supplies amounted to $518 at the four types of colleges that are cited in the table below; transportation expenses ranged from $926 for public community colleges to $794 for public four-year colleges. Miscellaneous costs ranged from $970 at public community colleges to $1,238 at four-year institutions.

PRESIDENT'S NOTES

A special meeting of the PBCC District Board of Trustees was conveyed on Tuesday, February 16, to discuss bonding for the PBCC Foundation dormitory project. With a vote of three to two, trustees pledged auxiliary funds to fulfill a bond funding requirement. (Auxiliary funds include the profits from the bookstore, cafeteria and vending machines.)

The pledge is a commitment which could be called upon to finance a revenue shortfall. However, a multitude of other contingencies are in place to fund such a shortfall before the auxiliary funds would ever be requested.

Construction of the dormitory project is scheduled to begin as soon as the bond documents are in place. The 160-unit project will be completed in time for the 1993 fall term.

Each unit will be completely furnished and consist of living-dining area, 4 bedrooms and 2 1/2 baths. Additionally, the units contain a fully-equipped kitchen with range, microwave oven and refrigerator. A washer and dryer are also available.

Amenities include a community room, pool and volleyball courts. The project will be completely fenced with one entrance which will be security staffed at night.

Students can expect to pay $260 per month to rent one of the bedrooms in the project.

CONTINUING CONTRACT PROPOSAL

The PBCC Administration asked the United Faculty of PBCC to agree to amend Appendix B. Effect of Promotions on

Continuing Contracts as seen on page 54 of the 1992-93 agreement with the Union. The proposed change reads:

Continuing Contract through Change in Assignment. Any member of the faculty holding a continuing contract who accepts an administrative position and then returns to faculty status may be eligible to be returned to a tenured position. Administrative appointments and administrative leaves are recommended to the Board of Trustees annually.

(The current contract language allows the return to a tenured position within a maximum time limit of two years; whereas, the above proposal does not set a time limit.)

This offer was rejected by the United Faculty. It is the intent of the Palm Beach Community College Administration to bargain this proposal during 1993-94 contract negotiations.

PRESIDENT'S NOTES

Results of a report from the Division of Community Colleges comparing community college associate in arts and associate in science degree transfer students in the state university system reveal that PBCC's graduates perform as well as, if not better than, native university students.

The Division of Community Colleges accesses the State University System's student files to identify community college associate in arts and associate in science degree completers who have transferred to one of the nine state universities. The report examined university-enrolled students during summer, fall and spring of 1991-92.

In the associate of arts area, 2,468 PBCC students and 26,924 native university students were studied, with PBCC students enrolled in 24 university programs. The number of PBCC students ranged from one to 737—one student was enrolled in Philosophy/Religion and the other 737 were enrolled in Business/Management. Following Business, the greatest enrollment was as follows: Education (356); Communication (159); Engineering (157); Psychology (141); Public Service (131); and Computer Information/Science (94).

The report noted that PBCC completers earned higher GPAs than native students in 10 programs. PBCC completers had a higher percentage of students with a 3.00 GPA or above than native students in 13 programs, while native students had a higher percentage of GPA (3.00 or above) in 11 programs.

Further examination found that PBCC graduates cumulate more student semester hours toward graduation than native students in all but two programs.

The report also revealed that PBCC's associate in science degree students performed as well as, or better than, native university students. A total of 114 PBCC students with an A.S. degree were enrolled at six universities: FAMU (1); FAU (103); FIU (5); UCF (2); and UF (2). PBCC graduates at universities other than FAU were enrolled in eight programs. The 11 PBCC graduates had higher average GPAs in all but one program. An examination of 103 PBCC associate in science degree students enrolled in 15 programs at FAU found that PBCC graduates also had higher GPAs than native students in 11 programs, with PBCC students earning an average of a "B" while native students had a "C" average.

In conclusion, the report reinforces the fact that PBCC students perform on par, and in many cases, exceed the academic performance of native university students.

PRESIDENT'S NOTES

At the June meeting of the board, trustees elected Homer Hand as board chairman and J. Max Davis as board vice chairman.

President Edward M. Eissey presented the Palm Beach Community College 1993-1994 annual operating budget of $44,703,087 to the board. For the coming year, 34 percent of the operating revenue will come from student fees, 63 percent from state appropriations and three percent from other sources.

Personnel costs are about 80 percent of the year's total projected operating expenditures, while current expenses are 17 percent and capital outlay expenses are three percent. Of the $35,656,965 in personnel costs, fringe benefits add approximately 23 percent on top of salaries.

In other business, Eissey noted that the Florida Legislature, both the House and the Senate, had voted unanimously to override the governor's veto concerning the bills which had approved PBCC's funding for the expansion of the Data Processing Building and the purchase of land adjacent to the Eissey Campus. The $2.1 million in special appropriations were reinstated to Palm Beach Community College.

The board then approved the purchase of the YMCA property which is adjacent to the Eissey Campus in Palm Beach Gardens.

The next regular board meeting is scheduled for 5:30 p.m. on August 11, 1993 in Conference Room C at the Central Campus.

PBCC Trustee Rear Admiral Thomas E. Morris, U.S. Navy (Retired) and Vice President of Academic Affairs Patricia A. Dyer accept the Servicemembers Opportunity College certificate from Commanding General of the U.S. Army Recruiting Command Jack C. Wheeler.

College Vice President of Academic Affairs Patricia A. Dyer with a registration and certificate designating the College as a Servicemembers Opportunity College (SOC) in a presentation held May 19 at Central Campus.

Service members serving in various locations can accumulate college credits which can be transferred to PBCC. An SOC designation will minimize loss of credit and avoid duplication of course work while maintaining the integrity of educational programs. In addition, as an SOC institution, PBCC will limit residency requirements and credit learning for military training and experience. College credit can also be awarded for selected extra-institutional learning through specialized exams.

Under the SOC member institution requirements, PBCC will also offer the Concurrent Admissions Program (ConAP) which allows newly-enlisted Army, National Guard and reserve soldiers to apply for admission on a full or provisional basis. Enrollment is deferred until completion of initial enlistment for active military service or until completion of initial active duty for training.

PBCC Vice President of Student Services Melvin Haynes, Jr. will serve as the College's SOC representative.

Howard, a retired educator/administrator, will replace trustee retired U.S. Navy Rear Admiral Thomas E. Morris. She holds a bachelor of science degree in business with a minor in English from Florida A&M University and a master of educational administration and supervision from Florida Atlantic University. Howard began teaching in Palm Beach County in 1949 and retired as vice principal of Palm Beach Gardens High School in 1990.

In addition to her contributions to education, Howard is active in the Habitat for Humanity organization, serving as chairman of the family selection committee. She is a board member of the Florida Retired Educators Association/Palm Beach County Unit, is active in the New Bethel Missionary Baptist Church and founded the Echo Lake Association of Neighbors.

PBCC'S CLAST SCORES RISE

Palm Beach Community College students who sat for the College Level Academic Skills Test (CLAST) on February 20, 1993 scored significant gains in passing rate over previous years.

According to recently-released CLAST scores, PBCC's passing rate increased from 41 percent in February 1992 to 58 percent in February 1993 for first-time CLAST examinees passing all four subtests.

The CLAST is comprised of four sections. Of the 404 PBCC students who took the essay subtest, 86 percent scored a passing grade; in English language skills, 79 percent passed. In the reading category, the passing rate was 81 percent; in mathematics, the passing rate for 403 examinees was 78 percent.

Commenting on the results, Vice President of Academic Affairs Patricia Dyer said that the new CLAST scores now rank PBCC 17 out of 37 in relationship to Florida's other 27 community colleges and nine state universities. In 1992, the College was ranked 34th.

FOUNDATION AWARDED $100,000 GRANT

The Palm Beach Community College Foundation has received a Special Category Historic Preservation grant-in-aid in the amount of $100,000 from the Florida Legislature. The appropriation will be used to restore the College's original 1933 structure located on Gardenia Street in downtown West Palm Beach.

Upon completion of the project, the Foundation will give the property to the College for educational and public use purposes. When restored, the building will provide needed classrooms, meeting and exhibition space for PBCC, the PBCC

Alumni Association, Florida Atlantic University as well as community and business groups. Though the state grant provides seed money for the project, Foundation officials plan to generate most of the needed restoration funds from local businesses who will benefit from the College's downtown presence.

Noted for its significance in architecture as well as education--PBCC is Florida's first public community college--the building is listed in the National Register of Historic Places.
